On Monday, joint crews from the Special Forces, the municipality, and the tax authority stormed the Al-Natsheh family building in the Ras al-Amoud neighborhood in the city of Jerusalem, and issued dozens of fines against the freed prisoner Saif Al-Natsheh.

The Wadi Hilweh Information Center – Jerusalem explained that the forces raided the house of the freed prisoner Saif, searched and vandalized its contents, then searched the yard of the house and issued several tickets in the name of the freed prisoner Saif.

The center added that the value of the fines amounted to more than 10 thousand shekels, which are: “a tilted building door, a tilting staircase inside the house’s yard, water leaking from a pipe in the house’s yard, the presence of weeds and dust in the house’s garden, cancellation of a vehicle’s license and a issuing a fine for that.”

The occupation authorities handed the Al-Natsheh family a summon to follow up with the municipality and intelligence for their son, Saif.

During the past weeks, the Wadi Hilweh Information Center – Jerusalem learned that the occupation authorities raided several homes of freed prisoners and families of martyrs, imposed various fines on them, such as those mentioned above, and summoned some to follow up with the municipality under the pretext of “inspecting building permits,” or summoning them to follow up with the intelligence, in addition to... cancellation of all family members’ vehicle licenses.
